An increasingly globalized workforce, consumerization of IT and ongoing cost pressures are forcing business leaders to reimagine how personnel work, communicate and collaborate. Users expect and demand secure and convenient access to communications and key productivity applications at the office, from home or on the road.

Many organizations look to Microsoft Office 365 as the productivity solution that will meet these needs; however, moving to and using Office 365 can be a substantial challenge for enterprises and requires significant planning and user preparation, especially as new capabilities such as Teams are being continually added. Once achieved, it's vital that users continue to receive the support they need to use these new capabilities, minimize business disruption and maintain productivity.

Migrate and consume Office 365

Get help migrating to and consuming Office 365 cloud-based email and collaboration services with DXC Services for Office 365 — a suite of flexible advisory, transformation and ongoing management services. Our set of migration and user-adoption capabilities will help you move users and data quickly and seamlessly. Our end-to-end delivery model includes Microsoft support teams, which means you get the support you need quickly, so you can focus your efforts on running your business. Gain from the DXC and Microsoft partnership

Our significant experience and a deep partnership with Microsoft ensure that you will benefit from proven migration methodologies and processes to safely move your users and data to the cloud. You also benefit from accelerated time to value from your Office 365 investment. And you get an integrated, co-located DXC Technology and Microsoft delivery team that provides rapid incident response and resolution time to reduce business disruption.

See us and the benefits in action

We understand how to work in complex environments, protect critical processes and meet tight timelines. We deliver outcomes that result in improved services, reduced risk and significant savings. For example:

- Fast, reliable migrations. DXC surfaced known migration blockers early on during a client's migration to Office 365, resulting in a 6-month acceleration and 46 percent cost savings.

- Improved productivity. DXC helped a client deploy new productivity tools with a data governance structure, enabling users to collaborate better and reduce time to market for new services by 15 percent.

- Cost savings. Working with DXC, a client centralized a globally distributed and fragmented email and collaboration platform to reduce spend by 25 percent.

Enjoy comprehensive, reliable support

When you choose DXC Services for Office 365, you'll benefit from our strategic partnership with Microsoft that includes:

- A single point of accountability. DXC works closely with Microsoft teams to handle, resolve and communicate any incidents rapidly.

- A trusted, proven methodology. We transform main workloads and the supporting ecosystem — authentication, network, devices and applications.

- Comprehensive support. We cover Office 365 from legacy, on-premises environments to cloud environments.

- More choice over location. With DXC, your applications and data can support local regulations and data privacy requirements.

Gain from our experience

Migrating to Office 365 represents a major transformation, but there's no need to go it alone. DXC has successfully transitioned more than

2 million user workloads to Office 365 and performed millions of migrations to updated versions of on-premises Exchange and SharePoint. Everything learned from those projects, including our own implementation of Office 365, is captured and shared so you benefit from that experience.

When your migration is complete, we're still there to help. DXC has more than 25 years of experience supporting millions of users' email and collaboration workloads. And our experience will help you in many other ways, including:

- Rapid support — An integrated, co-located Microsoft/DXC delivery team provides deep access to operational and engineering teams, integrated delivery processes and regular operations reviews for rapid incident escalation and resolution.

- Comprehensive coverage — Our extensive portfolio and experience help ensure your infrastructure ecosystem and users are ready for the change to cloud-based services. We provide assistance for Office 365 and ecosystem support, including authentication, network, hybrid on-premises services, devices, applications and service desk.

- Shared goals — CEO-level sponsorship and shared goals ensure that DXC and Microsoft work together to migrate enterprise clients successfully to new cloud services and to offer them the rapid support they require.

Work with the best
